2. Translate into Serbian:

- 1) Germans have a reputation of being hard workers but a German politician, Wolfgang Clement, says that Germans don't work enough. In German there is an official 35 hour week but German workers also enjoy between 11 and 13 public holidays a year, compared with eight in Britain. If you telephone a German office from late morning to early afternoon, people are often 'at lunch'. But if you call mid-afternoon, it is time for their 'coffee and cake break'.

- 2) Multinationals often have a complicated structure. There is usually a parent or holding company. This company owns other companies or parts of other companies. These other companies are called subsidiaries.
